2004 Grand Isle Lake House Retreats

The Preservation Trust of Vermont's Lake House retreats are for groups working on an historic preservation or community revitalization project. These retreats are a group mentoring experience where each group is asked to present a 10 to 15 minute case study about a challenge they're facing related to their project, followed by group discussion and brainstorming/cross mentoring. The whole idea is to bring people together from around the state who are working on similar kinds of projects in order to take advantage of the collective experience and thinking. In addition, we have resource people at each retreat to join in the discussion. We try to have about 6-8 groups of 2-4 people representing each project. The goal is to boost projects along their timeline by strategically identifying resources, solving problems, garnering peer support, and generating self-confidence and momentum.

2004 Retreat Dates:

June 21,22
Aug. 10,11
Sept. 13,14 (emphasis on churches)
Oct. 12,13

Check-in at the Lake House is 3:00 and we finish by 2:00 the following afternoon. The Gannett Foundation and Burlington Free Press are generously underwriting the retreats so that the cost to participants for room and three meals is $75/person for a shared room, $100 for a single. There are a limited number of single rooms available on a first-come basis. For a preview of the Lake House, please see our web site:

The retreats are part of the Preservation Trust's Field Service Program, a partnership of the Preservation Trust of Vermont and National Trust for Historic Preservation.
